Short Description

A chrome click-clack sink waste for use with sinks with overflow.

This sink pop-up waste is operated by pushing down on the waste lid and is sometimes referred to as a "click-clack" waste. The waste is secured in place by threading into its counterpart, clamping the sink between the two waste parts. The waste has a 1 1/4" BSP connection.

The waste is a plastic construction with a brass lid in a chrome plated finish. An all-metal version is also available, see similar products below.
