Short Description

The Mini Compact range includes models which are particularly recommended for medium size boats. They are simple to fit and modular; this means that they can be installed in compact form, or in three separate pieces according to the space available.

The switch gear and instruments are functional and easy to operate. The watermakers also feature alarm warnings and are designed to shut down if the system detects any issues in operation. Idromar watermakers are constructed from the best possible materials for a marine installation. From the frame to the nuts, screw and joints, every component is made entirely from 316L stainless steel.
