

Custom Pulpits

Product Images

Short Description

We are able to offer custom fabrication of stainless steel pulpits for yacht builders. Working closely with the design team, we can interpret a client's design concept and produce a beautifully finished end product.

Working with 316-grade stainless steel, we can achieve a perfect finish for projects that demand the very finest details. For more cost-conscious projects we can look to value engineer the component and consider alternative finishes such as powder coated aluminium. Designs can also incorporate other materials such as teak or iroko.

We encourage any prospective customer to make contact with us to discuss the project and their expectations so that we can best tailor our solution.

Images of previous work can be viewed in the photo gallery.

